

Dayne for V.P. Events

Hello Engineers, I'm Dayne Gawley, and I'm running to be your Vice-President Events! I have been an active member in the SESS since my first year, holding past positions such as First-Year Council Member and Sno-Golf Director, along with many current positions (Council Official along with three Commissioners). I believe that these positions have given me the skills I need to strengthen moral and current events while bringing new events to life. Here's my plan to accomplish my goals:

Increase Moral and Charity

It is common knowledge that moral in the students of the College of Engineering has steadily decreased during recent years. Looking at the history of the Society, many morale-boosting events and charities were held to help lighten the mood of our otherwise stressful lives. Furthermore, charity was historically a large source of moral and pride for the engineering students. We had a blood drive this year, and I hope to be building on that momentum to accomplish even greater feats in the next year. I hope to working closely with the other executives and commissioner to bring a variety of new events aimed at reviving the historical engineering spirit that we often long after, while meeting the needs of the modern student.

New Events

Along with helping boost moral and charity, I hope to put on some new events, and revive some old ones. I want to put on a social event between engineers and geoscientists where you meet the 'other' people who are covered under APEGS, and the people who you will find yourself working with after you graduate. Another event that I would like to do is a Bernoulli's Lab, which is something that was attempted this year, and I am confident that I can pull off. Further, I will be brainstorming some other new events with the executive over the summer that we would love to see come to fruition.
